National Response Corporation (NRC) was created as a direct result of the Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (OPA'90). NRC became a wholly owned subsidiary of SEACOR Holdings Inc. (NYSE: CKH) in 1995.

NRC is a nationally recognized oil spill response contractor, which holds the highest classification offered by the United States Coast Guard (USCG).

NRC has clients engaged in every aspect of the transportation, storage, transfer, processing, and exploration and production of oil and petroleum products. For example, over 340 foreign and domestic tanker owners are NRC clients. Our client list includes refiners, terminal operators, power plants, paper mills, and major and independent offshore producers.

Since 1992, NRC has been providing government and its customers in the energy and maritime industries with practical, cost-effective solutions to meet their environmental obligations. From OPA'90 to the United Nations' MARPOL 73/78 regulations, NRC has supported the international community in their efforts to preserve our waters, beaches and wildlife.

National Response Corporation

The NRC Mission

Our strategy is straightforward: Move resources and expertise when and where they are needed – within the exclusive economic zone of the United States. By maximizing the reach of our personnel and equipment, NRC will project manage a spill event and reduce costs to you, our clients.

NRC brings together a vast Independent Contractor Network – more than 144 local emergency response and clean-up companies, located in more than 538 locations nationwide.

Under custodial agreement, these independent contractors store NRC's owned and dedicated response equipment. In the event of an emergency or training exercise, NRC serves as the central client contractor, coordinating and deploying the resources as needed.

This strategy translates into extensive availability of equipment and personnel, streamlined systems and responsive communications, along with significant cost-efficiencies – for all our clients.
